Neighborhood Advice

Freely Given by a Norway Citizen.

When one has suffered tortures from a bad back and found relief from the aches and pains, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following neighborhood advice comes from a Norway resident.

"M. W. Sampson, Prop. boat transportation business, 19 Bridge St., Norway, says: 'A cold settled on my kidneys and brought on attacks of backache. I was lame and unable to move any way, the pain in my back was so severe. My kidneys didn't act right and I had dizzy spells. A friend who had used Doan's Pills with good results advised me to try them, so I went to Stone's Drug Store and got three boxes. After I had finished taking them, the trouble left and I have been free from kidney disorder since.'"

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Sampson had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Fore Street

Flora Cummings has returned home from a four weeks visit at her brother's, E. T. Judkins', North Norway. She received word, Monday, from her son, Alanson Cummings, of West Paris, who started for California, Oct. 25. Nov. 13 they had reached Garden City, the middle of the U. S., having traveled 2400 miles in their auto, camping as night overtook them. They both were well and enjoying the trip, meeting with many others going west. At one time there were 9 autos in line all going that way. They were finding it a little cool, though all along so far the weather had been delightful. The public camping grounds well equipped with even gas heaters in some places.

Leon Twitchell, who is yet practically helpless from paralysis that he was stricken with the second week in September, sits up in a wheel chair a few hours each day by being lifted in and out. We can see in many ways that he is gaining little by little.

We hear the DeWinnell's lost one of their nice work horses by sickness, last week.

Al Twitchell, who is in the apple packing business this fall, quits long enough to work on his bees now and then. He evidently gets something besides honey for his trouble.

Alice Chute of Mechanic Falls was a guest at E. E. Twitchell's, Sunday of last week.

Helm Pulkkinen of Poland Corner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waterhouse of Woodford, Judkins Cummings, wife and three children of South Woodstock were callers at Flora Cummings', Sunday.

The strong wind the first of the week blew up trouble with numerous autos, some being towed into neighboring yards where tea kettles of boiling water were turned into and over parts of the cars to "set 'em agoing."

The A. O. C. Mission meeting held an all day session at Tina Twitchell's, Monday. Those present were Miss Betha Glover, Mrs. Harriet Boyd, Mrs. Mary Smith of Oxford, Flora Cummings, Mildred Twitchell, Mary Twitchell and Elizabeth Twitchell of Oxford, Fore St. and Mrs. Wm. Pierce of Norway.

Almost Felt His Indigestion Go!

KARNAK

"Is, Without Doubt, the Finest Medicine Made," Declares Maine Man

H. C. Henderson

"This Karnak has fixed up my stomach so fine I believe I could now eat nails, so to speak, without suffering a bit of indigestion afterward," declared H. C. Henderson, well known resident of 43 Hampshire St., Auburn, Me.

"I had been in mighty bad shape with stomach trouble ever since I left the navy at the end of the world war and in spite of everything I could do I just kept getting a little worse all the time. My food would sour almost as soon as I ate it and indigestion, biliousness, headaches and nervousness kept me miserable day in and day out.

"But I began taking Karnak and when it got to work I could almost feel my indigestion vanish. It simply made a clean sweep of all my troubles, built me up several pounds in weight and gave me so much strength that my work seems like child's play. Karnak is without a doubt the finest medicine made."

Karnak is sold in Norway exclusively by Frank P. Stone, and by the leading druggist in every town.

COME HOME THANKSGIVING DAY

There's a message all unspoken That is carried o'er the land, By the breeze upon the mountains, By the waves upon the strand, And each absent one will hear it, Though he's wandered far away, As it whispers soft "Come home, Come home Thanksgiving Day!"

In the southland, in the northland, Or by frozen lake or sea, By far western plain or mountain, Or whatever place he be, The voice from home will reach him And unto his heart will Eileen, "O don't forget the old folks, Come home Thanksgiving Day!"

But alas! The tender message Falls to call some wanderer home, For beyond the seas and vales of life Now their silent footsteps roam; And all in vain our hearts send word Across the unknown way, "Dear ones come home, we miss you so, Come home Thanksgiving Day."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas once again our Heavenly Father has seen fit to enter our ranks and suddenly remove from our midst our dearly loved brother, Albert L. Hutchins, and while we mourn the loss of a worthy member, we realize there are other hearts more than ours. Resolved, that Fryeburg Grange No. 297, has lost a faithful and devoted Past Master, his family circle and loving husband, father, son and brother, and the most sincere and heartfelt sympathy of every member goes out to the sorrowing wife and little children, mother and brother, from whom he has been called. Knowing full well that he who watches over all our destinies has the spirit of the departed under his watchful care and will again unite the chain of love so recently broken.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent upon our records, a copy sent to the family, and to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, the breaking of another fraternal link in our chain of brotherhood transfers from our order to his final reward, our brother Albert L. Hutchins, therefore be it Resolved, that the death of our brother, Fryeburg Lodge No. 49, I. O. O. F., loses a good member, a Past Grand and one of its present officers.
Resolved, that while we as an order mourn the loss, we are mindful that to the widow and fatherless comes a greater sorrow than they have ever known and to them we extend our sincere sympathy.
Resolved, that as in the hour of sorrow there is one who alone can comfort, so we as brothers pledge our help and try thereby to exemplify the teachings of our order.
Resolved, that copies of these resolutions be sent to the family and to the Norway Advertiser for publication, also spread upon our records, that our charter be draped in the usual manner.

A RECENT CALL AT BUCKFIELD

(Written by Judge Charles F. Whitman of Norway)

Buckfield village, itself, hasn't altered much in the past fifty years, but the people—ah how changed.

Attending a hearing there at Grange Hall, before Hon. A. E. Stearns, Judge of the Probate Court, for the proving of the will of Martha N. Cole, one of the oldest ladies of the town, with Alton C. Wheeler as counsel for the proponents and Geo. C. Webber of Auburn attorney for the contestants, the writer was reminded by the many strange faces in the audience—the matter being of interest in the community had called out a large attendance—that there had been a great change among the people since he had moved away nearly fifty years ago. There was not one, among the spectators, intimately known.

On the way over the hills, on the South Paris road, were melancholy reminders of former days. The old schoolhouse where he was last a pupil under Julius F. Fuller of Oxford, had long ago disappeared leaving little to mark the place where it stood. A mile farther to the eastward, where the highway crossed a second road leading south into Hebron was seen a short distance away a spot where once stood the farmhouse of Capt. Joseph Turner—both long ago turned to dust. In his day he was the chief lieutenant among the mountaineers of Virgil D. Parris, member of the legislature, president of the senate, maker of state governors and a member of Congress. A laughable incident in Capt. Turner's life was recalled. One day season it had been very "catching weather" as the farmers said, when often there were showers so early in the day that they didn't have sufficient time to dry out their hay wet the day before and get it into the barn, ere it would again be drenched by a fresh shower. After three trials, Capt. Turner had succeeded in getting his hay dry enough to haul in but instead of doing this unwisely waited till after dinner and while seated at the table with the hired man and his family, he was astounded to hear a peal of thunder and going to the door he saw that a shower was fast approaching from the Taylor hill. He was furious and going to the stove, seized a stick partly burned in cooking the noonday meal, and rushed out of the house exclaiming: "The Lord won't have an opportunity to wet my hay again," he set fire to the bunches he had rolled up and they were quickly consumed.

A mile still further down towards the village, in the corner made by the highway and the road leading southwest into the hills, another schoolhouse once stood. Long ago it disappeared leaving no trace of its existence. On the right over the fence in a field are some ancient graves, where a few of the "forefathers of the hamlet" sleep. The body of John Lapham, a soldier of the Revolution, the great-grandfather of Dr. Wm. B. Lapham, rests in one of them.

The farm buildings, known in boyhood days as the Leonard place, are well preserved. Here lived Nathaniel, Jacob and Susan Leonard, unmarried children of Nathaniel Leonard, a Revolutionary soldier from Middleboro, Mass., who passed the last days of his life in the vicinity and is buried in the little burying ground near Uncle Nat, as all called him was a land surveyor of note and had been the candidate of his party for legislative honors. All had been school teachers. They were Whigs when Whigs were very few in Buckfield. It was a great treat to call at their home and hear their stories of the early settlers, and their views on the questions like temperance and slavery, then agitating the public mind. As may be supposed they were ardent supporters of the war for the Union and firm believers in the doctrine taught by Horace Greeley. After the war one of our neighbors who strenuously opposed it, on his way home from the village one day, where he had heard that Jeff Davis had been released from prison, with no prospect of ever being tried for treason, rode into the Leonard homestead, and seeing Uncle Nat accompanied him with, "Mr. Leonard, they say down to the village that your friend, Horace Greeley has bailed out of prison my friend, Jefferson Davis." Just what reply Uncle Nat made has been lost in the flight of time and the death of the parties, but it is pretty safe to assume that one act at least of the great editor of the New York Tribune was not approved by the Leonards.

The hearing had progressed rapidly—the testimony of Harry M. Shaw, who drafted the will, being clear and direct, covering all points required by the statutes, and could not be shaken on cross-examination. The evidence of the two other witnesses was in harmony with Mr. Shaw's and all that could be desired for that side. Mr. Webber called but few witnesses and these did not seriously controvert the evidence introduced to prove the will and it was patent to the writer what the outcome would be.

Chancing to look through the spectators again, a familiar face presented itself, the remote past of Ephraim Asa Atwood—oldest son of Ephraim, once a member of the legislature when he voted for the enactment of the "Maine Law" and old time trader in the corner store—born May 26, 1834, shows little, if any indications, of his ninety years and promises, with care in his treacherous climate, to reach his 100th birthday. Prime old citizen, remembered, as a member in his father's store, farmer, and a rounder up of slackers on election day. He once led the cohorts of Solon Chase in Buckfield, but now doubtless with the great majority of his countrymen, swears by the oldest man in Buckfield.

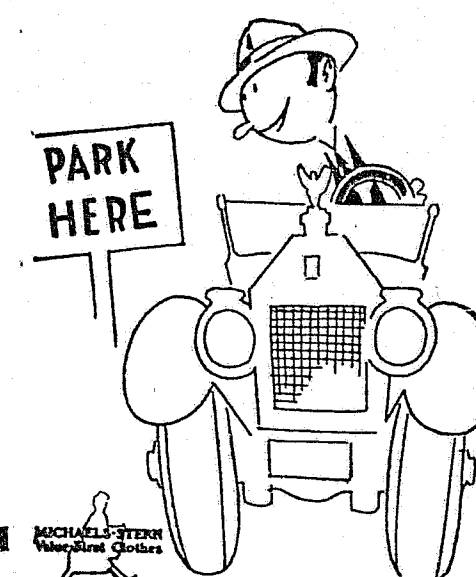

A. Judson Merrill, living on a small farm in the vicinity of the little hamlet once called Owl's Head village, near which he was born Jan. 29, 1833, has that distinction. He has been a teacher, school officer, selectman, book agent and farmer. Barring accident he, too, should last till he is 100 years old. He is remembered as a teacher and for a political incident that happened at a meeting in our old schoolhouse in the Lincoln campaign of 1860, when John D. Allen, with a deep bass voice like a drum, pet blast, stirred all our hearts as was sung the song of which the following is the first stanza:

Hark! hark! a signal gun is heard,
That good old song of state my boys
With cheerful songs and anchors gone
We fear the rogues will strand her.
She carries now a sorry crew
And needs a new commander.

Our Lincoln is the man.

The incident alluded to would hardly be interesting enough to relate here.

The busy past with memories of by-gone events slid away as Major Webber rose to address the court. He is a good pleader and argued his side ably. One wondered how he could do so well with so poor a cause. The "little Giant's" plea for the allowance of the will was a model of compact reasoning, showing that the testatrix was of sound mind and capable of disposing of her property as she desired. The Judge took the matter under advisement to report his decision at the Nov. term of Probate Court.

(The decision rendered on Tuesday last, allowed the will).

Both the attorneys in this case are said to be slated for special favors at the hands of the incoming Governor of the State. Public curiosity is at this early day somewhat keen to ascertain what will be passed out to them.

We were splendidly entertained after the hearing by Mrs. Alfred Cole and her son and daughter, who are the principal beneficiaries of their aunt's will, at their beautiful home on High St. The son, a college and divinity school graduate, is a dearing preacher of the Universalist denomination and has a pastorate at Boston, Mass. He is undoubtedly marked out for a D. D. degree if he lives. He was named for his father and also bears the family name of his mother. The daughter bears the name of her mother, Mary Storer. She is a leader in social circles of the place and a very tasty and accomplished lady. Many years of her life have been spent in caring for her invalid grandmother and mother and through the will of her aunt Martha will come into a part of her reward.

Live Wild Bear in Village

Mrs. Vivian Akers on returning from a recent visit to New Haven has this story to tell which was told her by her uncle, Prof. Sidney I. Smith, who is a grandson of Joshua Smith, the first town keeper in Norway.

In the late fall and of an early morning, Joshua was to visit his field of corn located near where now is the home of Col. A. J. Stearns.

There was a log over the brook used by foot passengers and as the single log was covered by frost Joshua didn't want to slip off and get wet so he removed his boots and was about to pass over when he saw another person on the opposite side and hollered to it to come on over and he would wait. On closer scrutiny the supposed person on the other side proved to be a bear which was out for an early breakfast.

This happened in Norway village about three generations back. Joshua Smith was the father of Elliott Smith and Sidney I. Smith—now in his 81st year—who relates the story, is a son and an uncle of Mrs. V. Akers.

Harold Moore, William Moore and Cecil Moore of this town and Arthur Pop-ham of Toronto, Can. enjoyed hunting in Gilead several days.

The Guild of St. Mary, an auxiliary of Christ Episcopal church, met, Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Davis Cook and watched on articles for the sale in December.

COWHIDE BOOTS AND RECOLLECTIONS

Two pairs of children's long legged cowhide boots in the window at the E. N. Swett Co. are relics of a sturdy age. They are nearly a century old and seem clumsy in comparison to our leather imitations and make-shifts for soft pedals. Children of today would be judged martyrs for shuffling along in starchy high cut cow hides made without buttons, buckles of laces. They would become at once a prospect for some charitable society and the father hustled as a respondent into court.

Men around the age of fifty years can recall the thrill when daddy brought home the wonderful boots with copper toes and red and blue leather decorations on the tops. A miniature bootjack and lumps of mutton tallow were mighty convenient accessories usually provided.

Many can recall the sharp wooden pegs that made life miserable; the frost bitten toes, or a constant gnawing of chilblains. Sliding "belly bunt" caused no damage, for the toes were there to stay. Every part of the boot was made to stand any strain a husky lad might invent. Usually in the second year a younger brother fell heir to the property, often a sister received the honor. Down the family tree went the boots until there was nothing left to cobbler.

In summer, shoe leather, except on Sundays, was excess baggage, so the thick boots were hung in the shed for next season. O, the misery of breaking them in after a summer of barefoot contentment! What tugging and pulling; breaking the top straps and fracturing good resolutions until tortured feet settled into the vise-like grip. Raw spots and aching toe joints followed, squeezing the joy from life and turning early morning hours into a chamber of horror.

Wading through drifts generally caused an uncomfortable snow pack to settle within the boots. When this happened, a bootjack was the correct answer.

Youngsters today are missing all that experience, but have they sweeter dispositions, or less corns in this age of Good-year and ultra-fashionable footwear? The toughest standard screw sole has nothing on the wooden pegged high tops of yesterday—surely we are progressing.

NORTH WATERFORD

W. R. C. Notes

The Harvest supper and sale by the Geo. M. Knight W. R. C. called out a good company. We were glad to welcome several of our members from Norway, as well as other friends. The supper was delicious and abundant, and all for fifteen cents.

Every apron was sold and the pump, pumped dry. The few pies that were left were sold at auction. Receipts of supper and sale were about thirty dollars.

A good program was given consisting of singing by the audience, readings by Maud Brown and Katherine Saunders, song by Dorothy Hurd, music by Linwood Flint and Harold Saunders, piano solos by Earl Brown and Winola Keger, and an Armistice Day story by Raynor Brown.

Next day some of the ladies went to clean up and after washing dishes, sweeping and dusting and scrubbing floors, they felt the need of more exercise or perhaps remembered that a penny saved is a penny earned, so they went out and threw into the shed a cord of wood.

About thirty members of Hamlin Lodge K. of P. visited the Lodge at East Sumner, Thursday evening, and worked the third degree. A delegation from Mexico conferred the second degree.

The W. C. T. U. will hold a reception to teachers and parents, Friday evening, Nov. 21 at the high school assembly room.

The "Down in Dixie" Minstrels played to a fair sized crowd, Thursday, at Association Hall. This was a colored aggregation in a program bristling with jokes, singing and dancing with much of the old time "nigger show" in evidence. The show is motorized that is, the performers travel, eat and sleep in quarters built on Ford trucks. As an advertising feature, the houses on wheels are not a howling success, they lack brilliant paint and circus flash.

Shaw's orchestra is on the move in spite of cold weather. Monday evening they were at Mechanic Falls, Tuesday at Norway and Wednesday at Strand Theatre. They play at Canton, Friday at North Buckfield and Saturday at Wiley's Hall, Lovell.

Some Comments

It is no longer "Legal Hill." It is Lost-Way-Lane and Furniture Alley. The Red Light district and Slaughter House Hill has passed away. Domestic felicity and family estrangement are being suggested.

Mrs. S. I. Jackson is a clipper with a pen. See last week's story of Paris Grange's Fifth. Fred Davis, the poet, would say "that's going some!"

Columbus sailed
The ocean blue
In 1492—
And about that time or a little subsequent mince-meat was discovered. Mrs. Joseph Lary of Round Pond has a few of the original packages. She opened one the other day and made a perfectly delicious mince pie.

What do you say to that?
Col. A. J. Stearns, ex-shoe manufacturer and lawyer of Norway, was recently appointed chairman of a committee of five to devise ways and means to raise funds for State advertising. It has been suggested a one mill tax on valuation be raised and that the present Maine Publicity Bureau expand it. This advertising is good stuff if properly handled.

Herschel Shaw of Houlton, ex-County Attorney of Houlton now banished to Thomaston for a year, wants a pardon. He has served half his sentence. The Governor and council will pass on the case next Tuesday. The Governor says they "will go into the matter carefully and do our best to protect the interests of the State and all the citizens." If this is so, Herschel will remain at Thomaston for his full term of sentence. No doubt of it.

Dr. Pulsifer of Berlin, N. H., leading surgeon of the city hospital in that town, was in Norway, recently, with a carload of fiddles. It was so reported at the Wearies, also that the doctor is the best authority in New England of the quality and tone of entrancing fiddle music.

Fifty-five towns and places were heard from in last week's Advertiser. It was the story of our special correspondents and tells of what the people are doing or trying to do. You should own a copy of the Advertiser. Have it come to your address each week. It is an excellent Christmas present for those who are away and interested in the news of this section. Five cents a copy or a year for $1.50. "No cash, no paper."

"Uncle Lemus"—C. F. Whitman, historian—passus sweet-pickle sop to local statesmen and editors in our last issue. Why so? You say.

The Holden-Stuart marriage announced last week is out of the usual. The groom is said to be in his 81st year and the bride is in her 80th. One is a 1861-65 war pensioner and the other owns a comfortable home in South Paris. Both are in good health age considered, and why shouldn't they get married if they want to?

The death department of the Advertiser of Nov. 14, announced the passing of eleven persons. The age of one was not given. The ten total 791 years or an average of 79.1 each. Five were males and 5 females. This shows that people live to a good old age even in this climate.

News item: Two girls were suspended from Colby college for the alleged offense of smoking cigarettes. Can it be possible? We supposed when womanhood was emancipated and armed with suffrage, equal rights were given them. Why not? Don't lay it to cigarette smoking. Wasn't the suspension caused by the new diversion known as: Female parlor-lounge-lizard flapperdom rather than cigarette smoking?

Eighty-nine per cent. of the business done at the October term of court at South Paris had to do with liquor. The enforcement of the Volstead act. This onslaught on demon rum filled the jail to overflowing. Yes, two were sent to the Auburn jail. Twenty-two divorces were granted, 4 marriages annulled and one divorce denied. Court lasted 21 days.

Old Ed. Howe of Atchison, Kansas, and Miami, Fla., flies into a rage when called "Uncle" and is a first-class writer of "good stuff" but he never put together a more accurate statement of present day facts than the following:

"I have long been a temperance man and prohibitionist. But is not the present row over enforcement of the prohibitory law almost as annoying as were the old saloons? The desire to violate the prohibitory law is the most universal thing I have ever noted in the United States. In the old days of saloons, I was never offered liquor as gifts, no more than I was offered hams, or flour, or other household supplies. But lately it is very common for men to offer me liquor; which, by the way, I always refuse, as it is villainous stuff. Prohibition of the liquor traffic is the most respectable reform the people of this country have ever attempted, but they fight it generally as they do a fire."
